On Saturday the 23rd of September, Blooming Greens opened the doors to the first Coffee Morning, welcoming new parents and acknowledging existing parents who have encouragingly remained with the school. The informal forum provided an open channel for acknowledgements, constructive advice and meeting of the school staff.

The following week of Friday the 29th of September, ushered in the well celebrated Nigerian Independence at Blooming Greens School in readiness for the public holiday on Monday the 1st of October. The children acknowledged the importance and significance of this date within their history thus; to celebrate, they dressed up in colourful Nigerian outfits. The children were welcomed to school with cultural tunes and complimentary flags by the Fine Art department.

The morning started with an extended assembly; each class demonstrating different facets of the rich Nigerian culture. Even our little babies were not left out of the fun assembly.

The morning assembly was rounded off with a poem written and recited by Teniola Ogedengbe in year 5.

A POEM FOR NIGERIA

*Oh! Nigeria My beautiful country.
You are endowed with rich and diverse cultures as well as natural resources.*

*A land flowing with milk and honey.
Unity and diversity is what you are.
One nation, God's own people,
The Giant of Africa.*

The school will break up for mid-term from the 23rd. -27th of October. The children will be expected to complete project based assignments over the short holiday. Linking into the homework project, year 3, 4 and 5 will be going for a 2 hour Art workshop on the 18th of October. The fun packed intensive learning will expose the children to creative ideas and new skills.

A reminder to parents:

- Arrival time to school is before 8.00 am, kindly ensure children get to school on time for registration at 7.50 am and lesson starts at 8.00am.
- Kindly collect Biometric cards from reception and use to maintain safety.
- The duration of school clubs are for a term and cannot be changed in most cases, due to allocated numbers for effective delivery within specific clubs.
- Every Friday, children will dress informally following the weekly colour code.
- Under Health and safety, the school does not encourage dangling earrings only stud earrings.
